

Ron Lefore Apple Farm

Ron LeFore Apple Farm is a family-owned and operated orchard and packing house that has been producing and packing some of the Northwest's finest apples for over 60 years.

Farming has been the way of life for generations of LeFores, starting with 2 brothers who left their fruit stands in the Ukraine to try their hand at farming in America. Renting orchards and peddling fruit finally brought the LeFore brothers to a small valley in the Blue Mountains of Eastern Oregon where the growing conditions were just what they had sought.

In 1946, Grandpa "Bear" LeFore bought a small orchard and with a horse drawn plow, planted his first apple trees.

Today, LeFore Apple Farms has become over 100 acres of hand planted trees that produce 7 varieties of apples.

LeFore apples are handpicked from the tree and shipped to customers all over the globe.

Throughout the year, the trees and apples are continually monitored and special care is taken to keep the trees healthy and the apples in optimal condition. Upon harvesting, the apples are washed, waxed with a natural carnauba wax, hand sorted, sized, and packaged. The apples are then moved into cooling rooms and can be shipped within days of harvest.

LeFore Farm packs approximately 175,000 boxes annually and ship to both domestic and international customers. Growing, packing, and shipping their apples on their farm helps to guarantee freshness.

About 2,500 known varieties of apples are grown in the United States and more than 7,500 varieties are grown worldwide.
